

In this scenario, a security personnel member in the control center enters an employee's ID card into the system and updates the information on the ID card. After that, they connect to the printer in the Control Center. The personnel then witness an event that warrants them triggering an Emergency Event or Lockdown Event. After the event, the personnel resolves the event. The personnel then prints an event log.